An audit of acute psychiatric emergency admissions to a general hospital. This retrospective study was conducted to determine the admission rate, profile and outcome of acute psychiatric admissions to a general hospital. A total of 169 admissions were identified from admissions to psychiatric in-patient wards in a 24-month period. The admission rate was 0.7 admissions per 100,000 population per year (95% confidence limits, 0.48-0.97). The most common diagnoses in this cohort were major depression (55%), an anxiety disorder (30%) and schizophrenia (12%). One-third of patients were admitted via the accident and emergency department, the majority via a community mental health team. The majority of patients (68%) returned home or were
